

Quickstart To Improve Team Morale

Three simple 1-hour retrospective formats based on the Liberating Structures
"Conversation Cafe", "Troika Consulting", and "Discovery & Action Dialogue"

The Liberators

The Purpose Of This Quickstart

Hey there,

Is morale in your team low? We wrote this guide to help you get the dialogue started in your team.

Team morale indicates how willing members are to push on in the face of difficulties. Teams with high morale find their work meaningful and feel motivated to work together. High morale is a buffer against inevitable setbacks and burnout, and a great indicator for the atmosphere in a team.

So what can you do when team morale is low? We share three short formats that easily fit inside a Sprint Retrospective. Their purpose is to start a dialogue in your team and begin improvement. The formats are based on the Liberating Structures "Conversation Cafe", "Troika Consulting", and "Discovery & Action Dialogue". So pick the one that you think will work best and take it away!

We also included many suggestions for small and actionable improvements that are useful when you feel stuck. If you'd like to dig deeper with your team, we also offer a selection of more extensive do-it-yourself workshops and additional resources to investigate team morale more fully.

Barry & Christiaan

The Liberators

Created by Theo Schukken for the Zombie Scrum Survival Guide
by Christiaan Verwijs, Johannes Schartau & Barry Overeem
zombiescrum.org

How To Prepare

Scrum Team Survey

We highly recommend a data-driven approach. So if you haven't already done so, take the Scrum Team Survey with your team. Use the data of the survey as input for this retrospective. You can bring the data with you, or use it to inform your decision to pick "team morale" as a focus topic.

How It All Ties Together

We are developing a data-based scientific model for what makes some Scrum teams more effective than others. Teams are most effective when their stakeholders are happy, when they deliver a lot of value and when team members experience high morale. Based on data from over 2,000 teams from across the globe, we identified 5 high-level factors and 20+ sub-factors that contribute to team effectiveness.

So when you score low in one area, our model offers guidance on what to invest in. For example, if morale is low you are bound to benefit from increasing your "Responsiveness" and "Stakeholder Concern". If those are hard, you can work on improving "Team Autonomy", "Management Support" and "Continuous Improvement". How is that for evidence-based improvement?

Online Delivery

Liberating Structures work well virtually. Here too, they allow you to unleash and involve everyone. What is exceptionally important, however, is that you have the right tools. Because Liberating Structures are fundamentally about breaking down large-group interactions into smaller groups, you need tools that allow you to create subchannels or breakout rooms easily. Zoom is ideal for this, but similar features are available in tools like Teams and GotoMeeting. We also recommend a virtual whiteboard where you can collect shared insights, like Mural, Miro, or Google Slides. Even Slack can work.

Option 1: Conversation Café

Conversation Café encourages people to listen and understand each other's perspectives on a profound, shared topic or challenge instead of trying to convince or persuade others to see it your way.

Sitting in a circle with a simple set of agreements and a talking object, small groups engage in consecutive rounds of dialogue. Conversation Café invites people to listen to one another's thoughts and reflect together on a shared challenge.

INVITATIONS FOR THE 4 ROUNDS

Round 1: "What have you noticed about morale in this team? What do we learn from the results? And what seems to be influencing our morale?"

Round 2: "What are new thoughts and feelings after having listened to everyone in the first round?"

Round 3: "So, what does this mean for our work together as a team, and the value we deliver to our stakeholders?"

Round 4: "Now, where do we go from here? Where do we have freedom and autonomy as a team to improve?"

STEPS

- Form groups of 5 people, sitting knee to knee. If you do this online, move people in breakout rooms for the entire Conversation Café. Debrief key takeaways of all the groups, once everyone is back in the main channel;
- 1 min State the theme of the conversation. Ask people to write it down in their notebooks;
- 1 min Provide a rough overview of the rounds. There will be four rounds of conversation, two first rounds using a talking object, the third one as an open conversation, and a final round with the talking object. Give the duration of each round;
- 2 min Read the six Conversation Café agreements. See text in the poster.
- 1 min Ask the groups to decide who becomes the "Host". The host is a full participant whose role is to gently intervene only when a participant visibly fails to observe one of the six agreements, most frequently talking on and on. Also, make sure that each group selects a talking object (can be a pen or anything else in the vicinity);
- 1 min Invite participants to reflect on the invitation;
- 5 min First round with the talking object: each person shares what he or she is thinking, feeling, or doing about the theme or topic. 1 min. per person
- 5 min Second round with the talking object: each person shares thoughts and feelings after having listened to everybody at the table. 1 min. per person
- 20 min Third round: open conversation (option to use talking object).
- 5 min Fourth round with the talking object: each member shares "takeaways."

Resources

- The original article on Conversation Café on the Liberating Structures website
- Blog post: Engage Everyone in Making Sense of Profound Challenges with Conversation Café
- Download the poster of Conversation Café

Conversation Café

The Liberators Developed by Keith McCardless & Henri Lippmanowicz

Option 2: Troika Consulting

Troika Consulting is a powerful Liberating Structure that helps people gain insights on issues they face and unleash local wisdom for addressing them. In rapid rounds of "consultations", individuals ask for help and get advice immediately from two others.

INVITATION

"What would boost your morale in this team, but is difficult or challenging for you to do?"

STEPS

- 1 min Give everyone one minute of individual thinking to identify a personal challenge;
- 1 min Invite participants to form groups of three and arrange chairs so that they sit knee-to-knee.
- Explain that Troika Consulting takes three rounds. Everyone will be a "Client" once, with the other two acting as "Consultants";
- 3 min Round one starts with the first client sharing his or her question in more detail. Consultants can ask the client clarifying questions;
- 5 min Ask the client to turn around with their back facing the consultants. Talking only to each other, the consultants generate ideas, suggestions, and coaching advice. In the meantime, the client listens and takes notes;
- 2 min The client turns back around and shares what was most valuable about the experience;
- Groups switch to the next person and repeat the steps.

ONLINE DELIVERY

- Create sufficient breakout rooms for groups of three;
- Give an overview of the steps of Troika Consulting. Let people self-manage their timeboxes. Together, debrief what this was like;

Resources

- The original article on Troika Consulting on the Liberating Structures website
- Blog post: Give and get practical and imaginative help from colleagues with Troika Consulting

Option 3: Discovery & Action Dialogue

As the name "Discovery & Action Dialogue" suggests, this structure takes the shape of structured dialogue. It helps groups carefully analyze the problem, potential solutions, and how everyone can contribute to both. It also builds helpful problem-solving skills in groups by providing them a useful structure to think about challenges in general.

Small groups answer the following questions:

"How do you know when morale in this team is low?"

"How do you contribute effectively to improving morale in this team?"

"What prevents you from doing this or taking these actions all the time?"

"Do you know anybody who is able to frequently solve this problem and overcome barriers? What behaviors or practices made their success possible?"

"Do you have any ideas?"

"What needs to be done to make it happen? Any volunteers?"

"Who else needs to be involved?"

Although there is a purposeful order to the questions, you can deviate from it if it makes more sense to you.

Steps

- Create a shared space (on a wall, the floor, or virtually) where you can collect insights and answers from the various rounds.
- 5 min Briefly introduce the problem the Scrum team will focus on. Divide the team into small groups with 3 – 5 participants and prepare the breakout rooms. Make sure everyone has a worksheet with the questions.
- 2 min Each group picks a "Guide" and a "Butterfly Catcher". The Guide asks the questions while the Butterfly Catcher captures insights and quotes. Both the Guide and the Butterfly Catcher also answer the questions themselves, so they have an extra responsibility. The groups also decide on a talking object. Only the person holding it can speak and decide who goes next.
- 35 min In their breakout rooms, the small groups answer the questions offered by the Guide. Make sure to always start with 1-minute of individual thinking and reflection. Only when the question is sufficiently addressed, the group moves on to the next question.
- 5 min When all the questions are covered, the Butterfly Catcher recaps the outcomes, and identifies the next steps.
- 10 min When everyone is back in the main channel, ask the Butterfly Catchers to summarize the findings of each group.

Resources

- The original article on Discovery & Action Dialogue on the Liberating Structures website
- Blog post: Discover and Unleash Local Solutions to Chronic Problems with Discovery & Action Dialogue

3 Quick Tips To Improve Team Morale

The key to successful improvement is to take one small, actionable step at a time. Here are some ideas to inspire you:

- As a team, identify the #1 frustration of which everyone says "that's just the way it works in this organization". Work together to create a small step in the direction of challenging the status quo.
- Use the next Sprint Review to celebrate a success you've achieved as a team. If possible, invite your stakeholders too.
- During the next Sprint, work with your Product Owner to write the Product Goal on a large banner and put it visibly in the team room.

3 Do-It-Yourself Workshop To Dig Deeper

The do-it-yourself workshops allow Scrum teams to create transparency around the state of Scrum, offer a step-by-step explanation to inspect the results together, and give guidance to make adaptations accordingly.

3 DIY workshops to improve "Team Morale" are:

- Become Better At Helping Each Other With Helping Heuristics
- Improve How Your Scrum Team Uses Sprint Goals
- Clarify How To Deliver Value To Stakeholders With Purpose-to-Practice

3 Resources To Learn More

- Blog post: Don't use happiness metrics, measure "Team Morale"
- Podcast episode: 10 Powerful Questions To Create Sprint Goals
- Blog post: In-Depth: Why Great Scrum Teams Have A Mind Of Their Own

Closing

In this paper, we shared three simple 1-hour retrospective formats based on the Liberating Structures "Conversation Cafe", "Troika Consulting", and "Discovery & Action Dialogue". We also included a bunch of small, actionable steps you can use for inspiration on how to improve, relevant do-it-yourself workshops to dig deeper, and additional resources to learn more.

If you've got any questions, comments, or ideas: always feel free to reach out and share them with us.

Let's learn and grow, together!

Make Your Scrum Team More Effective

Want to make your Scrum team more effective? We created the Scrum Team Survey to help. Invite members and stakeholders to a detailed questionnaire and diagnose the results together. You receive tons of actionable feedback based on your results, including dozens of quick tips and useful do-it-yourself workshops. You can use the Scrum Team Survey for free with your team. No account or e-mail address is required. You can also subscribe for more advanced features.

	Essential	Liberator
Invite team members & stakeholders	unlimited	unlimited
Quick Tips for your team per topic	3	unlimited
Recommendations to your team	5	unlimited
Compare your team against different benchmarks		✓
Maintain one or many teams from a single dashboard		✓
Receive our personal guidance on how to get started		✓
See where your team improves over time with Insights		✓
Support our academic research to help more teams		✓
Pricing per team per month	€ 0	€ 10

<https://scrumteamsurvey.org>

info@scrumteamsurvey.org

Unleashing Teams All Over The World

We are The Liberators – Barry Overeem and Christiaan Verwijs. Our mission is to create data-driven products to unleash the superpowers of teams all over the world. We do this together with a growing community of patrons.

Awesome content for awesome teams

We unleash teams with our blogposts, our podcast, our newsletter, our videos, and our frequent meetups. While we offer most of this for free, we also have plenty of premium content in our webshop for you to explore.

Supported by the community

We are super proud that The Liberators is almost entirely funded by the community. If you appreciate our work too, you can already support us for 12 dollars/year by becoming a patron. In return, you gain free access to premium content, we share our work-in-progress and involve you in creating more awesome content.

Thank you for respecting our work!

We work hard to create high-quality content that puts you in a position to unleash your team. We're sure you appreciate that a lot of our time and money goes into this. At the same time, content like this is our main source of income. It's what pays our bills :)

If you purchased this content, we ask only that you treat our work with respect and don't share it with people outside your team. If you stumbled on it elsewhere without paying for it, and it offers you value, would you consider supporting us too? You can also check out our other offerings.